

Abstract

The present invention provides a new and efficient way of measuring the instantaneous phase of periodic signals. The instantaneous phase information is also applicable to new methods of instantaneous frequency measurements, and signal frequency restoration.